

At 5am on January 1, 2006, Juan Guzman, 24, of Walnut Hill Wrecker was dispatched to pick up an arrest vehicle in Irving, TX. It was the dawn of a promising New Year for Juan as he drove his 2005 Ford F-650 with a Century bed to the scene of the arrest to do the job he did each time he was called. Simple enough. He arrived on the scene and handled the job as he had been trained, taking care of the details just like he had learned from five years in the military. Soon enough, he would be back at the house playing with his young son, perhaps he was planning to pick up donuts on the way home.

This was not to happen.

A reportedly drunk 19-year old driver ended Juan's promising life while he was loading the arrest vehicle. This could have been you, someone you work with or one of your employees. Juan was one of us.
